OUTSIDE · cut on corner marks · fold in half (print outside), then zig-zag · A4 100% · flip on long edge

BATTLELINE: MECH WARS
URBAN WARFARE EDITION

VILLAGE WIZARD

@village.wizard

BATTLELINE: MECH WARS

URBAN WARFARE EDITION

This is an era of civil war for the Republic of Ria, Warlord-Generals reign supreme fighting for territory and resources of the once great nation. From the fields of Rianth, shadowed by the worldblood spires to the ancient city of Rianz, Battleline Mechs march, bombs fall, and the nation bleeds.

Become a Warlord-General in this time of strife, control the battlefield and reign supreme.

Battleline: Mech Wars is a 2 player card game with 2 distinct game modes. Battlelines and Urban Warfare.

GAMEPLAY CONTINUED

6. Players take turns playing one card at a time, attempting to match or exceed the opponent's total Firepower.
7. Players must always play a card during their turn, even if they cannot match or exceed the opponent's total Firepower, and must draw a card from the deck after playing. If the deck is empty, no card is drawn.
8. This process repeats until one player cannot match or exceed their opponent's Firepower, or a player has 3 copies of the Battleline Mech at the end of their opponent's turn. The player who won gains a point. This also ends the round.

TWO WAYS TO FIGHT

In Battlelines you are commanding your army to form a battleline to match or exceed your opponent to push them back and eventually rout them.

In Urban Warfare you are commanding a company trying to take the center of the city district you are assigned to capture. Move your forces in the city but be careful, enemies could be anywhere and push you out before you know it.

GAMEPLAY

1. Shuffle all the cards together to form a deck.
2. Each player draws 3 cards from the deck.
3. Then both players draw another card from the deck and place it on their Battleline.
4. The player with the lower Firepower goes first. If the Firepower is the same, the players decide randomly who goes first.
5. A Fighter Bomber that is the first card on a battleline is treated as having a Firepower value of 1.

BATTLELINES

OBJECTIVE

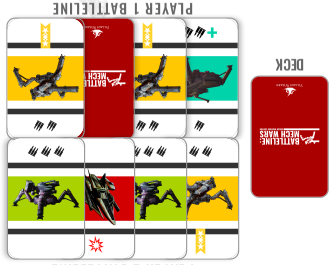

Win 3 rounds to win the game.

To win a round, a player must have a total Firepower that the opponent cannot match or exceed on their turn.

OR

A player has 3 copies of the Battleline Mech on their battleline at the end of their opponent's turn.

BATTLELINE LAYOUT

Player 2 sits across the table, so their cards face them (upside down to you). Each new card is laid overlapping the one before it. Player 2's Fighter Bomber turned one of Player 1's cards face down.

CARD TYPES

There are 4 card types:

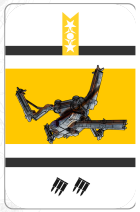

Fighter Bomber – When this card is placed on a battleline, the latest card on the opponent's battleline is turned face down. A face-down card generates 0 Firepower, has no type and has no effects. (Firepower added by a Logistics Mech still applies to it.)

Logistics Mech – Generates 1 Firepower. When a card is placed after this card on the battleline, this card gives that card 2 additional Firepower.

PARTS OF A CARD

Battleline Mech – Generates 2 Firepower. When a player has 3 of this card on their battleline at the end of their opponent's turn, that player wins the round.

Advanced Mech – Generates 3 Firepower.

INSIDE · A4 100% · flip on long edge

NEXT ROUND

9. For the next round, the last 2 cards on both players' Battlelines remain on the field, keeping their face-up or face-down state, and determine who goes first (lower Firepower goes first; gameplay rule 5 applies). All other cards are reshuffled to form a new deck.

REMEMBER
Win 3 rounds to win the game.

BATTLELINE: MECH WARS
URBAN WARFARE EDITION

URBAN WARFARE

VILLAGE WIZARD

URBAN WARFARE

WHAT YOU NEED

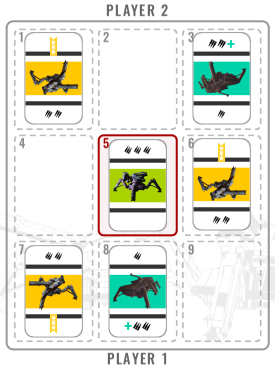

18 cards. Each player gets the same 9:

CARD	#	FP
Battleline Mech Get three of these in a straight line to win.	3	2
Advanced Mech Your strongest pusher.	2	3
Logistics Mech Gives +2 firepower to each of your adjacent cards.	2	1
Fighter-Bomber Never goes on the field. Play it to destroy one enemy card.	2	—

Firepower (FP) is how hard a card pushes and how hard it is to push.

THE FIELD

The field is 9 squares, 3 by 3. The middle square is the center. Two squares are adjacent if they touch on a side. Diagonals are not adjacent.

Mid-game. Player 2's cards face them (upside down to you).

STARTING

1. Give each player their 9 cards. Keep your hand hidden.
2. Pick who goes first at random.
3. The first player places 1 card.
4. The second player places 2 cards.

On these first turns you must place; you can't move, bomb or pass.

TURN ORDER

After the first turns, players take turns one after the other: first player, second player, first player, and so on, until someone wins.

ON YOUR TURN

Do one of these:

- Place a card from your hand on any outside square (not the center).
- Move one of your cards on the field one square up, down, left or right. You may move it off the field.
- Bomb: play a Fighter-Bomber and destroy any enemy card on the field.
- Pass.

PUSHING

If you place or move a card onto a square that already has a card, you push it one square along.

- A card placed on a side square pushes toward the center. On a corner, you pick which way.
- You can always push your own cards.
- To push an enemy card, your card needs at least as much firepower as it.
- A push can shove a whole row. Each card has to be able to push the one in front of it, or the push isn't allowed.
- Anything pushed off the edge is removed from the game, even your own cards.

PUSHING CONTINUED

Logistics bonus while pushing: it only counts if the Logistics Mech is already adjacent to your card before it moves. A card being placed from your hand has no bonus yet.

> Example: your Advanced Mech (3) wants to push an enemy Logistics Mech (1), but your other Advanced Mech (3) is behind it. The Logistics Mech can't push a 3, so you can't make that push.

REMOVED CARDS

A card is removed from the game when it is pushed or moved off the field, destroyed by a Fighter-Bomber, or is a Fighter-Bomber that has been played. Put removed cards on the shared discard pile. They don't come back and score nothing.

HOW TO WIN

There are three ways.

1. Battleline Victory. Get three of your Battleline Mechs in a straight row or column. You win straight away.
(If your opponent accidentally pushes your mechs into a line, you win at the end of their turn.)

2. Objective Victory. Put one of your cards in the center and keep a card of yours there through your opponent's next 3 turns. You win when your next turn begins.
If they take the center, or it ends up empty, start counting again.

HOW TO WIN CONTINUED

3. Attrition Victory. When both players have no cards left in hand, the game ends and you score:

- Add up the firepower of your cards on the field (with Logistics bonuses).
- Your card in the center counts double.
- Highest score wins. If it's a tie, whoever has the center wins. If nobody does, it's a draw.

If you run out of cards before your opponent, keep playing: move or pass until their hand is empty too.